- ① The common leopard gecko has a strange defensive mechanism where they can detach it's own tail and run off. The tail can grow back, but it wouldn't look the same.
- ② Like most reptiles, a leopard gecko has a forked tongue. The tip of the tongue can change into a deeper shade after eating.
- ③ Leopard geckos have ears. In the right lighting, you can see through their head!

A BIT ABOUT ME:

MY REAL NAME IS JESSICA BUSH BUT I'D RATHER BE CALLED JESS. I PUT THE "J" IN "JSHEEPISH"! I'M AN AMERICAN-BORN ARTIST WHO IS STUDYING TO BECOME AN ANIMATOR. INSPIRED BY THE WORLD OF BOTH ANIMATION AND GRAPHIC NOVELS, I STRIVE TO CREATE A TELEVISION SERIES WITH A SIMILAR STYLE TO JAPANESE ANIMATION, WITH A HINT OF A WESTERN KICK THROWN IN.

TELLING STORIES THROUGH ART IS A DREAM FOR ME. IF I CAN MAKE CHARACTERS THAT PEOPLE CARE ABOUT, THEN I HAVE SUCCEEDED IN LIFE.
